HAMMAM

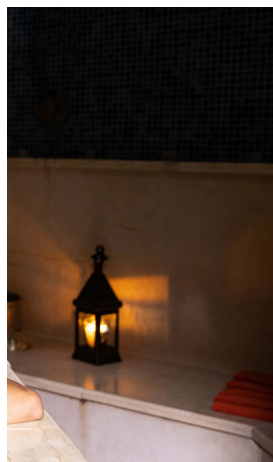

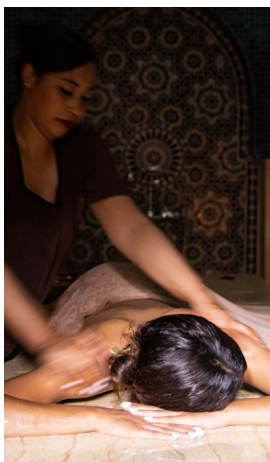

The Moroccan hammam is a timeless tradition that dates back over 2,000 years, inspired by Roman bathhouses. Traditionally found near mosques, these bathhouses served as spaces for physical and spiritual purification before prayer.

Moroccan hammams consist of several rooms with varying temperatures, allowing visitors to immerse themselves in a soothing, cleansing ritual.

This cherished tradition offers a serene escape from daily life, representing an important part of Morocco's cultural and spiritual practices rooted in history and relaxation.
